

The Scope of the Peace-building Studies

Yasunobu Sato, Nagoya University
Graduate School of International Development
(Uni. of Tokyo)

Introduction

- My Experience as UNTAC Human Rights Officer
  - Is Pol Pot a Robin Hood?      -Is punishment for rape marriage?

- 1. An Issue of “Peace-building”: for Non-Military International Contribution
  - ODA Charter in August 2003
  - UN PKO and “The Agenda for Peace”
  - Research Area by Comprehensive Peace-building Concept : 1. Governance for Dispute Processing, 2. Economic and Social Development for alleviating causes for conflicts, 3. Humanitarian and Reconstruction Assistance during and immediately after armed conflicts, and 4. Human Development for Long-term Peace Settlement

- 2. Concept of “Human Security”: Is it Rubbish Bin for Everyone?
  - UNDP 1994 Human Development Report and Shift of Development Paradigm: Economic Development (for Economic Growth), Social Development (for Social Justice and Fair Distribution) and Human Development (for Enhancement of Capability of Individuals)
  - A Bridging Concept connecting Development Studies (Human Development) and Peace Studies (Affirmative Peace)
  - Slogan by the Japanese Diplomacy

- 3. Potentiality of Area Studies: Deconstruction of Development Studies
  - Beyond Development Philosophy for Modernisation
  - Resistance against prevailing American Value (Intellectual Genocide?) in the name of Globalisation and Poverty Alleviation
  - Pluralistic Approach from a view point of the Fields

- 4. Peace-building Studies as a forum for practical research and education: Learn from Refugees
  - The Concept of Peace is not Universal and Absolute
  - Join-research with local researchers and refugees
  - Networking, Feedback Methodology for Research and Education, From Micro to Macro Level